Writing 20 points

The following utterance by J. Kennedy: "Don't ask what your country did for you, but ask what you did for your country" I understand in such way:

20 points

If you do nothing for your country, waiting for the moment, when it itself does something for you, then not only will not you be useful, but you also will not do good things to yourself and other people in the country too. It means that your life (and lives of the others in some cases) will be incapable of getting better.

But if you try your best in order to live great life, then, of course, your goals will be achieved and also it will be excellent for the country and the others, who live in it.

I personally think, that everyone has to be thankful for the chance to live this beautiful life and must do something useful, especially for helping people. There is no point to do nothing, being not needed for the society at all.

To conclude, I want to say that we should use opportunities we were given and try to do only the best ~~for~~ for your country.

Because if do not, then who will?
